WHAT WOMEN HAVE TO SAY OF CER-

WHAT WOMEN HAVE TO SAY OF CERTAIN OBJECTIONS TO FRANCHISE.

Some Answers to a Number of Pertinent Points Made by Writers Whose Professional Pursuits Have Made Their Expressions Worthy of Consideration.

I have been greatly interested in the views of the sterner sex in regard to suffrage. Some of your correspondents show an admirable sense of justice, others admit the right of suffrage, but doubt the expediency of it, while one takes the ground that women are not disfranchised by being deprived of the ballot, because they are represented by their husbands—for marriage is the ideal state for woman. If we grant that it is, the reality remains that, nevertheless, thousands of women are never represented. Moreover, do men represent women? I have yet to hear of a man foregoing his own opinion and voicing his wife s at the polis?

Is the intemperate man likely to vote this wife is dieas or his own when temperance legislation is an issue at the polis?

Through their journals they have again and again declared that, "The advent of women are in politics strikes the death blow to the liquor traffic," This was the cause of the defeat, a few years ago, in the state of Washington. Every man's vote that outline bought and it was sought, and it was sought and it was sought and it was sought and it was sought, and it was sought and it was sought and it was sought and it was sought and it was so
